

The pub dates back to the 1600s, but was relocated to the park in 1911.

From this higher pathway you will pass the Parks Maintenance yard on your left. Bear right on the pathway going downhill to join main pathway. See lakes in front.

Bear left and join main pathway towards wildflower meadow and Queen Mother's Woodland.

The woodland was planted with one oak for each year of her life, originally 80, but extended to 90 and then again to 100 trees, supplemented to mark the Millennium.

Follow the Rea Valley Walking & Cycling Route. The river runs the length of the park.

Bear left at the boundary of the park and follow the tree-lined pathway uphill towards Holders Lane Gardens and Holders Lane sports pavilion.

Leave the path bearing right and walk around the perimeter of the field. Join the River Rea pathway going back towards the park.

Following the pathway on your left, pass the exit to Birmingham Wildlife Conservation Park.

Wildlife includes kingfishers, bats and nuthatches.

Holdes Lane Woods, a conservation area and a fine example of mostly ancient woodland with a high percentage of oak and beech.